

Fractional RF Treatment for Keloids and Scars

Rei Okubo

Mitakanomori Skin and Plastic Surgery Clinic, Tokyo, Japan

Abstract

Fractional radiofrequency treatment has come to be used for mature scars such as acne scar.

This is because there are fewer complications after treatment. I used this technique to treat various scars, hypertrophic scars and keloids. Treatment of fractional RF was carried out once a month. When I treated keloids, I also used local steroid injection treatment at the same time. Treatment results were very good, little complications were observed.